ACALL IN VAIN.

The New York Sun makes a loud call for some one to become a leader of the democratic party. The call will not be answered. You may as well call the dead to life as to call on anybody to become an intelligent leader of the democracy. The Sun by way of illustrating the backward progress the democratic party is making, says that under the Carlisle, Mills, Breckinridge, Cleveland regime, the democratic majority of seventy-three in the house of representatives in 1883 has step by step been entirely wiped out, and to-day that party finds itself in the minority in both houses of congress. The reasons given for this sad reverse are, first, "injurious arrangement of the house committees and the dominance given to certain baneful elements." This certain baneful element named by the Sun means the hotheads, unscrupulous, blatant free traders of the south who have dominated on all the committees in the house.

The Sun then brings to the surface some historical facts of importance, saying, "Mr. Carlisle and his followers have reversed the policy of the party from a position in favor of a protective tariff and against internal revenue tax, to that of hostility to a revenue. Though disastrously beaten at the last election upon the issue they had raised, they persistently held to their blundering tactics during the session, and refused to permit the house to repeal the tobacco tax, though it was demanded by two-thirds of congress and three-fourths of the people." In connection with the question of protection the Sun makes the very wise suggestion that "if there is any one fact which stands out clearly amid the wreck and ruin that has befallen the party, it is that the American people mean to adhere to the protective tariff, and to sweep from existence the entire internal revenue system."

The ill-luck of the democratic party in finding leaders is discouraging to the better element in the party. It has tried several in the past thirty years, and all of them have failed. It thought it had a political Moses when it discovered Grover Cleveland, but he proved the weaker of all the leaders that ever led the democratic to defeat, and to-day the party is more hopelessly wrecked than it has been since the war.

Two facts should be written and then passed in the rate of all good democrats: (1) that protection to American industries cannot be trampled under foot in this country; and (2) that the solid south cannot dominate this government. The democratic party adhering to free trade and a solid south has been wrecked.

Some people may be surprised that New Hampshire voted against prohibition. But an explanation of the defeat of the measure is not difficult to give. There has for many years been a prohibitory law on the statute books of New Hampshire, but all that it has accomplished has been to make it uncomfortable for liquor-sellers in certain towns where the prohibition sentiment was exceedingly strong. Vermont has a similar law, which has been better enforced, and as a consequence that part of the Granite State lying along the Connecticut has driven a flourishing business selling rum to its neighbors across the river. The prohibitionists, thinking that there would be more virtue to a constitutional provision than a statute—that the former would be self-enforcing, while the latter plainly was not—began an agitation which led to the submission of the amendment Tuesday. The vote by which it was defeated was not large, but it was decisive. One unsatisfactory condition of things as regards prohibition is that there is not in a state like New Hampshire, a moral sentiment strong enough to enforce such a constitutional law. Maine has had nearly a score of amendments to her prohibitory law, and still prohibition does not prohibit in that state. Of course the law is an improvement upon the ordinary license system, but it is not as effective as it should be.

In Kansas, the Gazette is pleased to note, the prohibitory law works much better, and it is doing some splendid work in Iowa. But in New Hampshire the majority of the people did not have faith enough in the proposed amendment to adopt it.

Jenkins is in his glory now, when he can furnish such thrilling information as this, "No member of President Harrison's cabinet is a total abstainer, though Waukegan publicity towns upon intoxicants. Mr. Harrison likes a swallow of Irish whiskey now and then, Blaine is a connoisseur of French wines, Wiadom enjoys a dinner at which each course has its appropriate stimulant, Tracy fond of a pint of champagne at lunch, Noble likes malt drinks and indulges every day in a bottle of imported ale, Miller seldom takes anything but rye and seltzer, while Rusk swallows his corn-juice plain."

This item is going the rounds, and it shows how great a liar Jenkins is. Harrison does not drink intoxicants at all, and likewise Waukegan is a total abstainer as he should be. As to the other members of the cabinet except Secretary Rusk, the Gazette knows nothing in regard to their social habits. The government would make money if it would hire Henry C. Payne to superintend the postal service of the country. The administration needs the services of just such a man, and as the money is in the treasury with which to hire him,

FATAL EXPLOSION.

A Boiler in the Morris Iron City Foundry Blows Up and Kills Several Men. PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 15.—A battery of boilers at the West Point Boiler Works of R. Monroe & Sons, on the corner of Twenty-third and Spillman streets, exploded shortly after 12 o'clock yesterday afternoon, completely wrecking the plant, and burying a number of men in the ruins. Four have been taken out dead and three badly injured and are still a number in the ruins. A derrick others were quite seriously injured, some of them, it is thought, fatally. The names of the dead already removed from the wreck are: ARTHUR LINCOLN, engineer, tragically mutilated; single; resided on Howard street, Allegheny.

CHARLES ALLENBACH, laborer; head and body boiled.
DANIEL CLARK, boiler maker, mangled and scalded.
JOHN REMBEIMER, boiler maker; badly scalded.
The most seriously injured are: JOHN FORREST, a helper, aged 29 years.
HARVEY BARR, a helper, aged 26 years.
WILLIAM KELLY.
JOHN BARBER.
JAMES CARTNEY.
FRANK MANESKE.

Martin Conners and one other were taken from the ruins alive. Conners, however, it is thought, will die.
The explosion occurred just after the noon whistle had sounded, and many of the workmen had left the work to get their dinners. The concussion shook the buildings for several squares.

The building was a large one-story brick structure and was formerly occupied by William Smith & Sons, pipe manufacturers. The plant was a valuable one, and will prove a complete loss, but it is safe to say that it will reach $20,000. The concussion shattered the windows and damaged houses for three blocks, and it is a miracle that more people were not killed or injured.

At 2 o'clock the body of James Carlton, a helper, aged about 22 years and unmarried, was taken out, making five dead removed from the ruins.

Martin Conners, who was so terribly scalded that he will die, is 24 years old and unmarried. He came to this city a short time ago from Baltimore.

Carterney was recently married. The others are single men.

The boilers were inspected six months ago and were thought to be in first-class condition. The real cause of the explosion will probably never be known, as the engineers who were on duty and no one else has been found who was in the engine room at the time the disaster took place.

Terribly Burned by an Explosion. CHICAGO, March 15.—H. B. Shamp, superintendent of the Chicago Water Works Company, and Thomas O'Brien, a helper, were burned to-day at the company's pump house, and the former may be killed. The explosion occurred while pairing one of the boilers and an oil can exploded, setting both men's clothes on fire. The engineer saved them from burning to death by turning a water hose on them and extinguishing the flames. Mr. Shamp's face is burned in such a manner that the skin and flesh hang down in shreds.

Imprisoned in a Mine. MOUNT CARMELO, Pa., March 15.—Intense excitement prevails at the Black Diamond colliery, where by a running of the pillars six miners have been closed. Workmen are driving a heading for the purpose of liberating their imprisoned companions, but several hours must elapse before it can be learned whether they are alive.

Nothing with Which to Stop Fire. WARREN, Ind., March 15.—The large glass works of Stewart, Estey & Co., at Marion, burned this morning. The fire was started in the cupola by a spark from a switch engine. The loss is $15,000; insurance $30,000, in various companies. There is no fire protection in the vicinity.

A Fatal "Header." CHICAGO, March 14.—Edward Blotner, the 19-year-old son of Lieut. August Blotner of the central station, who took a "header" from his bicycle last night, is believed to be fatally injured.

FOR A BIG STEEL TRUST.

Three Companies Owning Seven Mills to Combine. CHICAGO, March 15.—If negotiations now pending do not fail the three great steel companies of Chicago—the North Chicago, the United and the Joliet—will be merged into a single corporation, which will have a working capital of at least $20,000,000. A movement has been on foot among the officers and large shareholders of the three companies to effect the combination, and many of the preliminary details have been partly agreed upon, but as yet the final deal will make the three one has to be successfully planned. Nearly all the large shareholders and officers favor the combination, so do the three boards of directors. It only remains for the stockholders to put the plan of the combination to a vote to effect one of the greatest metal combinations in the country, and the greatest in the West. The managers of the company say the combination will not in any way resemble a trust, either in the form of its organization or its workings. It will not attempt to restrict production or shut off competition.

If the plans of the managers of the scheme do not fall and the combination is effected they will control seven of the most extensive rolling mills in the world. The North Chicago company alone employs 1,000 men at Bay View, Wis., one on the North Branch and another at South Chicago. The United Steel company has two, one on the South Branch and one on the North Branch. The Joliet company also has two, one at Joliet and one near Ashland avenue bridge.

The Great Fall River Strike. FALL RIVER, Mass., March 15.—The fifth day of the weavers' strike opened without any appreciable change in the situation. The weavers still present an unbroken front, and the number of strikers is larger than yesterday. The shut-down of the King Philip and American linen mills has added 2,000 to the number of idle operatives and has brought the strike home to the great body of operatives outside of the weavers. There was a meeting on the park this morning, attended by over four thousand strikers, who manifested the same enthusiasm as at the beginning. The members of the executive committee urged the strikers not to go back until all were ready to go. The strikers will hold a mass meeting Saturday. The big struggle is expected to come next week, when there will be no wages coming in. The agents of the mills in Rhode Island and other States are here engaging some of the operatives.

Beauty Without Paint.

What makes my skin so dark and muddy? My cheeks were once so smooth and ruddy; I use the best cosmetic made. Is what a lovely maiden said.
"That's not the cure, my charming Miss." The doctor said, "remember this: If your skin would keep from taint, discard the powder and the paint."
"The proper thing for all such ills is this," remarked the man of pills: "Enrich the blood, and in this you'll find the only cure."
Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will do this without fail. It has no equal. All druggists.
Pier's Soap is the most elegant toilet adjunct.

Beecham's Pills not like magic on a weak stomach.

THE IOWA MAN NAMED FOR THE POSTOFFICE.

Dismissing Our Relations with Mexico—Justice Matthews Suffers a Relapse—Gossip.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The President signs the following nominations to the Senate Thursday.
J. S. Clarkson of Iowa to be first assistant postmaster-general, vice A. E. Stevenson, resigned.

Lewis Walley of Tucson, Arizona, to be Governor of Arizona.
Rathbone Gardner of Rhode Island, to be United States Attorney for the district of Rhode Island.

William L. Dunlap, of Indiana, to be United States Marshal for the district of Indiana.

Jeremiah Sullivan of Montana, to be collector of customs for the district of Montana and Idaho.

The Senate in executive session confirmed the nomination of J. S. Clarkson to be First Assistant Postmaster-General.

The Senate in executive session confirmed the nomination of J. S. Clarkson to be First Assistant Postmaster-General.

Mr. Clarkson accepts the office of First Assistant Postmaster-General with great reluctance and against the advice of his friends, although he was urged to do so by the President, Senator Quay, and nearly all of the members of the national committee, with which he was associated during

J. S. CLARKSON.

The last campaign. Mr. Clarkson's friends not only feel that his office does not measure the obligations the President owes to him, but that his health, which has not been good for some time, will suffer under the ordeal he will necessarily endure. The duties of first assistant postmaster-general are without doubt the most arduous that pertain to any office under the government, and it is of private secretary to the President, and although Mr. Clarkson is not a man to be easily worried he will be taxed to the fullest extent of his strength.

THE DIPLOMATIC CORPS CALLS.

President Harrison Formally Receives the Foreign Representatives.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The President was able to devote more attention to official business to-day than on any day since his inauguration. This was accomplished by denying himself to all callers, saving those with whom he had engagements. The crowds, as usual, and when it found that the President was not to be seen turned its attention to heads of departments. The result was that the Cabinet officers were overruled with office seekers, and the President had a little time to himself. Secretary Noble, Postmaster-General Waukegan, and Attorney-General Miller were in conference with the President during the forenoon, and to-day's session was the result. The only other persons who saw the President before noon were Senators Sherman, Stewart, Spooner, and Higgins, and Representatives Milliken, Stone, Baker, and Morrow.

At noon the President formally received the members of the diplomatic corps. They assembled at the department of State where they were presented to Secretary Blaine by Assistant Secretary Adee. Proceeding to the White House the diplomats who were retired in their respective court dresses, were introduced to the President by the Secretary of State. All the legation were represented.

The President was assisted by Mrs. Harrison, Mr. Maine, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harrison, Mrs. McKee, and Mrs. Hilditch. The reception took place in the blue parlor, and lasted half an hour. No formal speeches were made, a general conversation ensuing after the introductions.

Relations with Mexico.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—The Senate will close to-day with the debate on the resolution for the appointment of a select committee on the relations of the United States with Mexico and Central America. Mr. Gibson contended that the ground for the appointment of such a committee was as strong with regard to Mexico as with Canada. He quoted figures to show the trade development of Mexico and that while Canada had only 4,000,000 population Mexico had 10,000,000. The friendship of Mexico was needed in order to uphold and maintain across the Isthmus of Panama and in respect to Central America the Monroe doctrine, and it was quite as important to the autonomy and freedom of Mexico that that doctrine should be maintained by the United States in the face of the hostile aggression of Germany, France, or Great Britain.

After further debate Mr. Hale objected to further consideration of the subject and the Senate adjourned till Monday.

Justice Matthews Has a Relapse.

WASHINGTON, March 15.—Justice Matthews has had another of the relapses which have marked the progress of his illness. The justice has a complication of disorders, none of which alone is of a very grave character, but which taken altogether make a very serious case. The primary troubles consist of rheumatic attacks and impaired digestion. For eight weeks preceding the inauguration he showed a steadily improving condition in health, and during this time he received as many as six or eight callers daily. The terribly bad weather about March 4, however, seemed to affect him, he caught cold, and this has been followed by several relapses. These attacks leave him weak and unable to relish his food, and are, of course, to be feared, because of their tendency to still further reduce his strength and weaken his ability to recover. It is said that the nature of his disease is such as to necessarily make the changes in his condition very slow, whether in the direction of better or of poorer health.

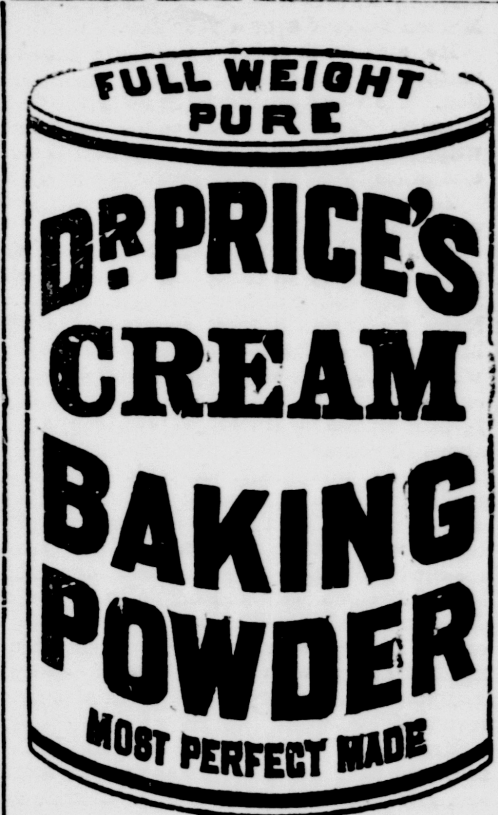

The Lily Too Ill to Act.

NEW YORK, March 15.—Mrs. Langtry was too ill last night to appear on the stage, being unable to rise. Last evening's operation was performed upon her throat, during which she swooned twice. She can not now speak aloud.

Bad blood causes dyspepsia and dyspepsia reacts by causing bad blood. So both go on, growing worse, until the whole system is poisoned. The surest means of relief for the victim is a thorough and persistent course of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

MIXING THE WEATHER.

C. B. Conrad's Cold Storage Warehouse Open to the Public To-Day.

A Modern Enterprise Carried Out by the Aid of Modern Methods.

"Where's my fur cap?" "Who's got mittens?" "Did you bring along your Arctics?" These and a volley of questions much the same in import rattled about the head of Alderman C. B. Conrad as he ushered a party of friends into the cold-storage warehouse just finished. The questions were not unnatural either. The slamming of a massive door took the party from sunshine and warmth into semi-darkness and a temperature well down toward freezing.

The warehouse was opened to the public for the storage of goods to-day. It has storage capacity to accommodate 4500 cases of eggs and other perishable supplies in proportion, 600 tons of ice will be used in keeping summer toned down to the point usually most popular in winter, and the building is so arranged that a current of cool, dry air is in circulation at all times. The building is so dry that a match can be scratched on any wall.

The erection of the warehouse was in charge of O. F. Nowlan. Plans were drawn with special regard to strength and solidity and the timbers supporting the ice compartment would sustain a weight of 24 hundred tons. Under twenty-four feet of width there are sixteen feet of solid masonry extending eight feet into the earth. Great care has been used in the construction, and the building which occupies a site sixty feet by twenty-two feet in the rear of the Star restaurant, may certainly be pronounced a credit to the city.

—Olive Branch Lodge No. 36, Ancient Order of United Workmen, assembly in regular semi-monthly meeting this evening at their hall in the Smith block, East Milwaukee street.

—A string of seven tramps, most of whom had been turned out of jail by Sheriff Babcock within forty-eight hours were brought from Clinton on the accommodation last night.

—Little Lord Fauntleroy likes to look over the counters of The Magnet as he is sure to find plenty of useful things at very low prices. He has a ticket for the lamp too, and is very hopeful of winning it.

—We are now informed that McAdams will fight Daily. Whereupon a Rockford punster remarks that if he don't do any better than when he monkeyed with Madden, he can fight twice daily without either getting hurt much.

—Judge Bennett's work for the remainder of the present term of court will be devoted largely to clearing away the minor matters that usually come up in the midst of a term to interfere with matters of more importance.

—Mr. Joseph Woodruff, of Watertown, New York, is in the city the guest of Judge and Mrs. John R. Bennett, Milgion avenue. Mr. Woodruff is an uncle of Mrs. Bennett, and a brother of the patentee of the Woodruff sleeping car.

—The committee on fire department returned from Chicago last evening where they went to inspect the different styles of hook and ladder trucks in that city. The committee will make the results of their visit known to the council on Monday evening.

—There seems to be a mistake in the notice that the Odd Fellows would give a social dancing party to-morrow evening at Odd Fellows hall. The Odd Fellows social party will be given on Saturday evening of next week and not on to-morrow evening.

—The Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian church, will give a social this evening at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Galbraith, corner of East Milwaukee street and Milton avenue. Supper will be served promptly at six o'clock at the usual price. All are cordially invited.

—E. D. Ryan, manager of D. A. McMillan, the well known wrester, returned to Milwaukee to-day, after spending a few days in this city, endeavoring to arrange for an exhibition. Little encouragement was given, and the combination will probably make its first appearance at Rock Island, where Collins, the runner, is now in training.

—Evidently, the Recorder objects to the proposition to "take whisky out of politics." Nevertheless the Gazette is in favor of the proposed bill of Assemblyman Miner transferring the power to grant licenses in this city from the common council to the municipal court. The bill may not be perfect as it now stands, yet it is the correct theory, and if it becomes a law its benefits will be many to the city.

—Among a litter of twelve pigs, born on Thomas Austin's farm, a mile from Palmyra, were two monstrosities, one of which was presented to Dr. R. Pearson, who will preserve it in alcohol. One of the pigs had no nose, no eyes and no mouth. The other resembles a cow in body and a rhinoceros in head, having a well developed horn over its nose. Both pigs were born dead. The remainder of the litter were normal.

—Yesterday afternoon at the residence of the officiating clergyman, the Rev. G. H. Trever, pastor of Court Street M. E. church, Mr. Wm. Powell and Miss Lena L. Schubert were joined in the holy bonds of matrimony. Their many friends will wish them continued happiness and prosperity. Mr. and Mrs. Powell left on the 5:15 train last evening for Milwaukee, where they will spend a few days visiting friends, returning to Janesville, they will make their home on South Jackson street.

—This age presents the greatest boon. Salvation out; it cures so soon.

When Christmas came with its good cheer, its fun, and its merry-making, we used to deprecate its cold, but that was long ago, before the days of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Now it is very different. A new era has dawned on us, and great and small, little and tall, merry men all, are happy.

THE CHINESE DIDN'T COME.

Janesville Celestians Deny that Any Milwaukee Fugitives Are in the City.

They Object Vigorously to their Countrymen Being so Sweepingly Denounced.

"You've got two of the Milwaukee Chinese in your rackety old shop, hiding them, and if they don't get out of town by to-night you'll think Fourth of July is here ahead of time."

This pointed warning was given to one of the almond-eyed laundry men this morning. It was not accompanied by the official seal of the city, nor emphasized by the notes of a brass band but it had force enough to leave the almond-eyed contingent around the city badly stirred up. When a Gazette reporter stepped into the shop on West Milwaukee street a discussion sounding much like a coffee mill in a gale of wind was going on.

"Is it true that there are any of the Milwaukee Chinese in the city?" was asked.

"Nope. China boy 'nough here already."

"But didn't some come here to hide?"

"Nope. Didn't have to. All light in Milwaukee."

"Then there have been none here at all?"

"Nope," with evident impatience.

"Well, where have the men gone that left Milwaukee? Will they go back to China."

"Don't know"—this with significant energy. "Keeps me most all the time to my own business."

"What do the Janesville Chinamen think of the Milwaukee cases?"

"Looks like two or three are caught, but why they chase all the others too? Only a few do anything like that. When they do they ought to be in jail. No Milwaukee men in Janesville, though. Make too much trouble."

HIS JANESVILLE WORK ENDED.

LIUTENANT LAVERY'S LAST MEETING TO BE HELD TONIGHT.

Lieut. Thomas Lavery will conclude his revival work at the Baptist church with the services this evening. Lieut. Lavery came to Janesville unannounced some three weeks ago and quietly went to work holding a series of revival meetings in the Baptist church, using the great moral force which he possesses to induce people of the world to lead a better and a God-fearing life. As an evangelist he is a few superiors, in that his whole life until within a few years has been spent among the unconverted—even among the wicked; therefore he speaks to his fellows from personal knowledge and experience. He has accomplished much good during his stay in Janesville, and the prayers of many who have been benefitted by his ministrations will follow him in his missionary labors. Lieut. Lavery has been assisted here by Dr. Hodge, pastor of the Baptist church, as well as many of the other ministers of the city. The meetings will be continued by Dr. Hodge for some time to come.

KILLED BY THE CARS.

MARTIN V. GLASS, FORMERLY OF THIS CITY, KILLED AT ST. CHARLES, MO.

Last evening Mr. B. E. Hilt received a letter from W. P. Clarke, of Milton, enclosing the following letter from Captain Stetson, which, with "clipping" alluded to, give all the particulars known here relating to the sad affair.

CAPTAIN STETSON TO COM. CLARKE.

WELLSVILLE, Mo. March 9, '99.

W. P. Clarke, Milton, Wis.

COMRADE: Please call the attention of your post to the enclosed clipp from the St. Louis Globe Democrat of the 7th and 8th. His old comrades of Co. E, Twenty-second Wisconsin and all other acquaintances will regret his untimely death. He used to live at Janesville but it seems that he was recently from Nebraska City.

I do not know that he was a G. A. R. man or not, but that makes no difference. I remember him as a good soldier and if I can be of any service to his friends he will be pleased to do anything I can for them.

Yours in F. O. and L.

H. R. STETSON.

Late Captain Co. E, 22d Wis.

ST. CHARLES, Mo., March 6.—A construction train on the Cleveland, St. Louis and Kansas City road ran over a man sitting on the side of the track, near George Oehra's place, a few miles above town, this morning about ten o'clock. He was mangled in a terrible manner, and his skull mashed in at the base of the brain. After he was brought to town a number of surgeons operated on him, but death ensued at one o'clock. Papers found in his pocket indicated that his name was Martin Glass, and his home Nebraska City. The remains are now at the dead-house awaiting the arrival of the coroner.

The lid of the coffin that contained the remains of Martin V. Glass, the unfortunate man killed Wednesday near town by a construction train, was pried open yesterday morning and a coroner's jury examined the mangled body. The verdict of the coroner's jury was: "Accidentally killed by being struck by a train of cars going north on the Cleveland, St. Louis, and Kansas City Railroad." Among the dead man's effects was a certificate of an honorable discharge from Capt. Henry R. Stetson's Company, "E" 22d Regiment of Wisconsin Infantry. He had been enrolled on the 9th of August, 1862, at the age of 23 years. He was described as 5 feet 5 inches high, dark complexion, blue eyes, dark hair, and at the time of enlistment a farmer.

Deceased resided in Janesville for many years. At the close of the rebellion Mr. Glass returned to his home in this city, following the occupation of the tempest for some four or five years, when he removed to Nebraska City, Nebraska, with his family, consisting of wife and one son, Herbert Glass. He was a brother of Mr. B. E. Glass, the photographer.
